Effect of Saiko-keishi-to for trigeminal neuralgia

Takahito Morishita

Department of Anesthesiology, Takamatsu Red Cross Hospital

Abstract : Saiko-keishi-to was administered to three cases of sudden trigeminal neuralgia, then relief of pain and the disappearance of fits were observed. In case in which it is hard to continue to use carbamazepine internally or to increase the dose of the drug because of its side effects, it might now become possible to decrease the dose and to control the pain.
